

I stand by New Jersey's current Do Not Call List regulations. These companies have more than enough money to advertise in other ways. They certainly do not have the right to call me because their only method of advertising is "word of mouth" as they say, or telemarketing. Have them run ads in the Sunday paper like every other company. I , as a former telemarketer, firmly reject any proposal, lifting the current legislation. I have been in so much peace since this law, that truly is 100% for the people. Thank you, and please advise telemarketing agencies to look into other forms of harrasment, because, calling my house is a thing of the past. Thank you also for allowing us to express our views.
